In hopes of ending discontent

Pay plan for city firemen, policemen drafted by Council

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Washington C.H. City Council has drafted a new pay plan for city firemen and policemen which will hopefully end discontent in those two departments. The pay proposal, which was hammered out in a two-hour executive session Monday night, would give the firemen and the policemen a yearly cost of living adjustment and would provide for merit pay increases in both departments.

Contract delivered to firm

Council opposes hike in city offices pact

A contract for remodeling work on a new Washington C.H. city administration building will be hand delivered to a Dayton firm today for signatures, even though the firm is requesting an additional $14,000.

The firm, Bob Boyd and Associates, Inc., was the low bidder on the general renovation work with a bid of $116,861. However, the Washington C.H. City Council did not pass an ordinance awarding the contract until after a 30-day deadline had passed all wing the withdrawal of original bids.

The Dayton firm withdrew its bid and is now asking for $130,884 to do the remodeling work on the building at 215 E. Market St.

Council met in special session Monday night and decided to send the Dayton firm the contract listing the original bid price. If the firm refuses to sign the contract, Council indicated that the entire remodeling project, estimated at $176,000, would be re-bid. The decision was made after several Council members indicated they would not authorize City Manager George Shapter to sign a contract with the Dayton firm for more than the original bid.

"I will, and I'm speaking for myself, not vote for any increase," Council member James Ward said, adding that the Dayton firm has now had time to inspect previous bids. "If it means scrapping the project, it means scrapping it."

Council member Jack Balahtsis expressed similar sentiments and criticized Council for not passing the ordinance before the 30-day deadline. "I was asked to vote on a worthless ordinance," Balahtsis, who assumed a Council seat last week, said. "I feel I was deceived."

Balahtsis said that the city had received a letter from the Dayton firm saying the original bid had been withdrawn. The letter was delivered prior to Council's passage of an ordinance awarding the bids last Wednesday, yet a majority of the Council members were not informed and the ordinance was passed.

City Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough told Balahtsis that he was "out of order" adding that the ordinance passed last week was not worthless. She asked city law director Gary Smith if the ordinance was worthless.

Smith said the ordinance was pending (it had already been placed on two readings by Council and needed one more reading to pass). "Passing the ordinance was the only thing the city could do to get it off center," Smith said.

Present agreement expires Dec. 31

City, township continue fire contract talks

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

With Union Township facing the possible loss of fire protection, negotiations between township trustees and Washington C.H. city officials to agree to a new fire protection contract are continuing.

The contract which assures the township fire protection through the Washington C.H. Fire Department will expire Dec. 31. Since early summer city officials and township trustees have been attempting to negotiate a new contract.

Presently, the township pays $36,000 a year for fire protection. The city indicated last winter that the $36,000 was too low and steps should be taken to increase the annual fee.

Washington C.H. City Council has

The proposals were submitted to both departments Tuesday morning for their approval. No word has been received from policemen on how they feel about the proposals and the firemen are to meet tonight to decide if the proposal is acceptable.

Ten members of the city fire department have been upset over Council's failure to grant raises and a recent cut in benefits. A three-day sick-out was conducted earlier this month by the firefighters to bring attention to their requests.

The sick-out was called off after Council submitted a tentative proposal to the firemen. However, there were still some disputed points in that proposal that threatened to result in further labor action from the firefighters.

The firefighters threatened to take the action if no proposal was agreed to by Dec. 14. Council hopes the proposal drafted Monday night will be satisfactory to the firefighters.

More recently members of the city police department have met with the city's personnel committee to discuss pay and personnel policy. There have been no reports on what was discussed at that meeting.

Under the proposals a cost of living adjustment will be reinstated to both departments on Jan. 1. The cost of living adjustments were discontinued earlier this year when all city employees received a 15 per cent base salary increase.

There is a limit on the cost of living adjustments made each year under the proposals. Those adjustments can not exceed eight per cent, even if the cost of living increases over eight per cent in a year.

There is also a provision which would make one-half of the cost of living adjustment part of the employees' base salaries at the beginning of each year. That salary increase must not exceed four per cent of the cost of living.

The firemen and policemen will also be moved up a number of pay ranges at the first of the year. However, even though a fireman will move from range 15 to range 18, no pay increase will be realized under the proposal.

Each pay range has a number of steps listed within it. Those steps provide for merit raises each year. Presently no merit raises are possible because firemen and policemen are paid the top step of each salary range.

Besides the three-range jump for firemen, a fire lieutenant would move from range 17 to range 21. The assistant fire chief would move from range 21 to range 23 and the fire chief would move from range 22 to range 26.

City Manager George Shapter said the fact that some employees would jump four ranges and some would jump three ranges, would increase the pay ranges between ranks. He added that

Children's home, airport inspected by commission

Inspections of the Fayette County Children's Home and the Fayette County Airport were conducted by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday.

The three commissioners are required by law to inspect the two county facilities twice a year.

Ray D. Warner, chairman of the board of commissioners, reported that the children's home is in "good order" and clean. However, the inspection turned up some problems with the plumbing at the children's home.

"There is some needed repair work on the plumbing, which is going to be a major project," Warner said.

The commissioners also decided to have the trees trimmed along the entrance way to the children's home to get rid of overhanging limbs.

The commissioners had lunch at the children's home, which is operated by Linda O'Pry and houses 28 children, and then inspected the county airport.

Warner reported that no major problems were found at the airport, but there were cracks in the runway that need repair. He added that Fayette County Engineer Donald C. Conley has been contacted about repair work on the runway.

During the commissioners regular board session Monday, a contract authorizing the C.K. MacFarland Co. of Circleville to do trenching work at the new county landfill on the Robinson Road.

The Circleville firm was the low bidder on the trenching work which will cost $13,324.

The commissioners also approved requests to allow several county employees to attend conventions and conferences during December.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson withdrew as President Carter's nominee for FBI director because of his slow recovery from surgery, Attorney General Griffin Bell announced today.

Bell said he will "let the dust settle" for two weeks before deciding how to go about choosing the administration's next nominee to succeed Clarence M. Kelley and become the third FBI director in the agency's history.

As deadline approaches

Fuel bill discount program suffering lack of response

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With the signup deadline a day away, at least 150,000 elderly and handicapped households have yet to apply for the Ohio "lifeline" program, state officials say.

And the officials were at a loss to explain the lack of response for the program, under which the state would pay 25 percent of an elderly or handicapped person's winter heating bills. They say they are concerned that persons eligible may not know about the program.

Robert J. Scholl, a taxation department official, said only about 54,000 applications had been received from an estimated 200,000 eligible renters — those 65 and over or with permanent, total disabilities, with incomes of $7,000 a year or less.

Homeowners who qualify under the same restrictions, with their number of eligibles expected to exceed 500,000 households, apparently had responded much more favorably. They apply with county auditors, and statewide figures were not available for them.

However, Robert Kosydar, former state tax commissioner who now represents the auditors as a lobbyist in the legislature, said Monday he understands as many as 95 percent of eligible homeowners may have applied.

Under the program — believed to be the only one of its kind in the nation — the state will pay 25 percent of winter heating bills for the elderly and handicapped on bills received in December through April. For those using fuels that are not metered — such as coal or propane — a flat, one-time payment of $87.50 is available directly to the consumer.

Scholl noted that the original deadline was Nov. 15, except for owners and renters of house trailers who qualified under a later enactment and were given until Nov. 30. Two weeks ago, it was changed to Wednesday for all.

Despite publicity that accompanied the extension, Scholl said Monday the response was still low. "We're at a loss to explain it," he said.

However, he speculated that some persons still may not have been made aware of the program.

"Some people don't read the newspapers very much or listen to the radio, and are hard to communicate with," he said.

He also said he agreed with an earlier concern expressed by Martin A. Janis, director of the commission on aging, that some senior citizens may be reluctant to apply for fear of being regarded as taking "welfare" from the state.

The more favorable response by homeowners has been attributed largely to the existence of homestead property tax rolls, providing names of homeowners 65 and over who have qualified for real estate tax reductions over the past several years.

No such list exists for renters, and it has been a case of relying on media and other educational efforts to appraise them of the lifeline program, Scholl said. The commission on aging has been trying to assist in the effort at its regional centers around the state.

Homeowners who haven't already applied should call their country auditor, and renters may inquire by calling toll free to the taxation department in Columbus, 1-800-282-1780.

Israel, Egypt, U.S.

Three nations set for Cairo meeting

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat apparently is going to have a three-nation Cairo conference attended by Israel, Egypt and the United States.

Israel formally agreed Monday to attend the meeting called by the Egyptian president to make preparations for an Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva. Officials in Washington said the United States also will participate.

Of the others invited, the Palestine Liberation Organization, Syria and Jordan said they would not attend, and the Soviet Union, Lebanon and U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim have not responded. But the Russians and the Lebanese are expected to stay away because of Syria's stand.

Sadat had said the meeting could start as early as this Saturday. Other Egyptian officials said it probably would be delayed until next week.

Officials of the Carter administration said the United States would participate in the conference but was delaying an announcement. The officials said the administration detected signs that the opposition to the meeting by Sadat's militant Arab foes might wane and believed an announcement of U.S. participation would solidify the opposition.

U.S. officials also said the level of U.S. representation had not been decided, but Secretary of State Cyrus Vance would not attend.

Israel also downgraded its delegation, naming as its representatives Eliahu Ben-Elissar, the director-general of Prime Minister Menahem Begin's office, and Meir Rosenne, legal adviser to the Foreign Ministry who helped draft Israel's disengagement agreements with Egypt and Syria after the 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

Despite Washington's talk of waning opposition to Sadat, only one slight conciliatory note came from among his opponents.

Syrian President Hafez Assad told a news conference in Damascus "there can be no divorce" between Syria and Egypt, "there only are divergencies in methods and priorities and procedures." But he said he would attend the anti-Sadat Arab summit meeting Libya and Algeria have called in Tripoli Thursday.

King Hussein in a televised speech defended Sadat's trip to Israel. He said it resulted from his "reading of the disunity, uncertainty and indecision" in the Arab world and reflected "painful Arab realities."

Hussein pleaded with "Arab brethren for courageous joint action to reunite ranks and rebuild a unified position in order to face the future, whatever the difficulties." But the Jordanian government said it would not send representatives to either the Cairo or Tripoli meetings unless all "concerned countries" attended.

Vance won't attend

Carter's envoys not named for conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter Administration, despite some misgivings, is preparing to take part in a preliminary Middle East conference this weekend in Egypt, U.S. officials say.

But the officials say that the level of U.S. representation has not been decided, although it was certain Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will not attend.

Among the names mentioned for the assignment are Phillip Habib, undersecretary of state for political affairs, and Alfred Atherton, assistant secretary of state.

The conference was proposed on Saturday by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The idea is to lay the groundwork for a reconvened Geneva Conference at which a comprehensive Arab-Israeli settlement would be sought.

Sadat maintains that a Geneva conference held without adequate preparation most likely would end in failure.

An apparent reason for U.S. acceptance of Sadat's invitation is to avoid any weakening of Sadat's shaky political situation.

Administration officials recognize, however, there is no certainty that the Cairo meeting will enhance achievement of the long-range U.S. goal of reconvening the Geneva Conference.

Among the most skeptical about the conference are officials who see Arab unity as a precondition for achieving a comprehensive settlement.

Nonetheless, the consensus is that benefits of the recent trend toward friendlier relations between Egypt and Israel clearly outweigh the negative factors.

These include the alienation of some of the more radical Arab nations, whose support will be needed for the success of any overall settlement.

As of Monday, Israel was the only country which had agreed to attend the Cairo conference. Responses from the Soviet Union, Syria and Jordan still were not in.

The fast pace of recent developments has left even the most seasoned U.S. experts on the Middle East puzzled about their meaning.

This explained the ambiguity of the administration's public response to

If government claim is correct

White Rhodesians crippled

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Moderate black nationalists say the guerrilla armies fighting the white Rhodesian government suffered a crippling blow if the government's claim to have killed at least 1,200 guerrillas in Mozambique is correct.

The blacks inside Rhodesia, whose leaders are preparing to open talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith on a transition to black rule, appeared to put little or no credence in Mozambique's claim that about 80 persons were killed in the five-day Rhodesian air and ground attack deep inside Mozambique last week.

"It would be a lie to suggest we are happy with what happened over there," said an official of Bishop Abel Muzorewa's African National Council. "It is a tragedy that this continuing war has forced the government into action and that our people have died. But it has taught us some lessons."

Intelligence sources say the raids by air and ground forces on two major guerrilla bases set the black war effort back by months.

Some blacks cited the apparent impotence of the 10,000-man Mozambique army, which began as a guerrilla force that fought Portuguese colonial troops for a decade. It put up no opposition to the invaders, the Rhodesian government said.

Both black and white politicians now believe the Rhodesian government's radically-mixed security forces must be retained to keep future black governments in power as well as guarantee the safeguards for the whites demanded by Smith. But spokesmen for Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, another moderate leader who will negotiate with Smith, say specialist units that have been accused of harassing civilians will have to be disbanded.

An official report from Maputo, the capital of Mozambique, accused Rhodesia of a "slaughter" but said few guerrillas were slain. The Marxist government said most of the victims were women and children, families of the guerrillas.

It also reported "five soldiers of the Rhodesian racist army were killed." The Rhodesian government reported one of its soldiers killed and eight wounded.

The Rhodesian military command said its ground and air forces began the five-day assault on two guerrilla bases last Wednesday "in the interests of self defense."

A communique said the invaders struck the guerrillas' main base camp at Chimoio, 54 miles inside Mozambique, and a second camp 132 miles from the frontier in the northern province of Tete.

The report from Mozambique said reporters who visited the Chimoio camp saw bodies of women and children slain by the attackers and a mass grave for schoolchildren killed during classes.

Western correspondents were barred from the combat zone, preventing confirmation of the casualty claims.

It was the fourth major Rhodesian military operation inside Mozambique which the Rhodesians have admitted since August 1976.

But not as bad as last year

Colder than normal winter is forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is at least a 50-50 chance that northern and central parts of the nation will experience a colder than normal winter, but not as frigid as last year, the National Weather Service reports.

In its annual December-February forecast, the Weather Service said Monday there is a 65 percent chance that temperatures will be colder than normal in the far northern part of the country.

Chances are 50-50 for a colder than normal winter across the central section and the Mississippi Delta, while in the Southwest and Southeast, there is a 65 percent chance it will be warmer than normal, forecasters said.

The Weather Service has said the odds are 30 to 1 against a repeat of last winter's severe conditions, which were the worst in nearly 60 years for most of the midwestern and eastern United States. A year ago, forecasters had predicted colder than normal temperatures, but that proved to be an under-estimation.

The Weather Service also said Monday that rain and snow may return this winter to many areas that went without them last year.

"Although no strong statement can be made, more total precipitation than usual is favored by a 55-45 probability in northern California, the Pacific Northwest and the northern Great Plains, as well as from the Mississippi eastward through the Appalachians," the forecast said.

"Southern California, the Southwest and the southern Great Plains are 55 percent likely to be drier than usual. Unmentioned areas must be left at 50-50," it said.

Areas of the north likely to be colder than usual are the Columbia River Basin eastward through the northern Great Plains to the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Valley. Milder temperatures are expected in much of California, the Great Basin, the Southwest, the Southeast and the mid-Atlantic coast below New York City.

"A V-shaped intermediate strip from New England southward to the Mississippi Delta and northwestward to Idaho and the Pacific remains intermediate."

Donald L. Gilman, the chief long-range forecaster, says his staff makes forecasts by charting wind patterns. Then they look back through 30 years of charts to look for similar trends. He says winter temperature forecasts have been right 65 percent of the time in the past 19 years.

As holiday nears

Retailers expecting good selling season

By The Associated Press

Christmas shoppers are splitting their spending this year between electronic gadgets like video games and coldweather necessities like warm clothes, according to retailers who say they expect a good selling season.

Herb Glaser, executive vice president of J.L. Hudson Co. department store in Detroit, said about 3,500 to 4,000 children went through the line to see Santa Claus on Friday. The number was 1,000 to 1,500 higher than the same day in 1976.

Glaser said the memory of last winter's cold, combined with snow on Friday and over the weekend, helped sales of heavy outer clothing. He reported a big rush for knit goods like scarves and gloves. For the home, the best early sellers were video games and food-processing items, Glaser said.

Chuck Huskinson, operations manager at J.C. Penney's in Salt Lake City, said sales were "much better than last year, quite a bit better." The most popular items? Luxury goods like stereos, video games and cameras — "especially cameras."

In Schaumburg, a Chicago suburb, Sears store manager John P. Maloney said: "Sales are going very well for us. Crowds were much larger than we expected." He said customers alternated between luxury goods — "Video games are very big again this year" — and practical things — lightweight irons, women's boots and garage door openers.

For some shoppers, money apparently is no object. "It's amazing the number of gold rings, diamonds and watches we're selling. Cameras and stereos also are doing very well," said Bernie Gordon, general manager for four JAFCO department stores in the Seattle area.

A spokesman for Lazarus, Columbus' biggest department store, said expensive items like furs and video tape recording systems at around $1,000 each were going well.

This year's gimmick gift, according to the Lazarus spokesman, may be toilet tissue printed with crossword puzzles. "It seems like an item that could catch on," he said, but added, "There's no single (gimmick) item that stands out like the pet rock of a couple years ago."

A cold weekend in Atlanta — temperatures in the 20s — boosted sales of outerwear and sweaters. "The weather was most cooperative," said a spokesman for Davison's, describing Thanksgiving weekend sales as record breaking. In addition to the warm clothing, the spokesman said people were buying "luxury goods, from fine jewelry and furs to TV recorders.

New pay plan

this will provide added incentive for a firemen to attempt advancement in rank.

A similar jump in pay ranges are provided in the policemen's proposal. The police chief will move from range 24 to range 26, police captain from range 20 to range 23, police sergeant from range 19 to range 21, police specialist from range 18 to range 20 and patrolman from range 17 to range 18.

This would put the policemen and the firemen on an equal pay schedule according to rank. But, again no salary increase will be realized by either department.

Employees in both departments will receive the same salary as they presently make in lower ranges. It simply allows for merit advancement.

How the city is to determine who earns a merit raise and who doesn't is still undecided. This will be worked out later, according to Shapter.

A number of other items are contained in the two proposals.

The firemen will receive additional vacation time, no disciplinary action will be taken against the firemen who participated in the sick-out, work missed during the sick-out will be charged to accumulated vacation time, and the proposal will run for a two-year period.

The policemen will also be granted additional vacation time and the agreement will be for a two-year period.

The city will also drop the annual $250 clothing allowance to policemen and replace the allowance with provisions that would pay for the dry cleaning of uniforms and needed uniform replacements.

A majority of Council drafted the proposals Monday night during the closed session. However, one Council member, Billie Wilson, left the meeting before it was half over.

Council has reportedly agreed to take other city employees into consideration in possible pay benefits. It is not known when those considerations will be formulated.

Carter envoys

Sadat's proposal. For the record, State Department spokesman Hoddging Carter III said Monday that Sadat's initiative "could be helpful" and that it was under "active consideration."

Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Henry Jackson, D-Wash., both assailed the administration for not publicly endorsing Sadat's proposal more quickly.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the administration was maintaining a low profile to determine how other interested parties intended to respond.

President Carter devoted much of the day Monday to briefings on the Middle East situation.

Almost in passing, Carter and the State Department spokesman said there virtually is no prospect that a Geneva Conference can be reconvened before the end of the year.

Stock market declines again

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market continued lower in early trading today, continuing its modest decline for the second consecutive session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 2.86 to 836.71 in the first half-hour of trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Over-all, losers outnumbered gainers by a margin of more than 4-to-3 in early Big Board trading.

Among news developments, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns said during a speech in New York today that he doubted the employment level would drop to an acceptable level over the next few years. But he also said he expected economic and tax policies to soon take on a more constructive character.

Among early prices of actively traded issues, Eastern Gas & Fuel slipped 1/4 to 19 3/4; Pepsi was unchanged at 27 1/2; Exxon off 1/4 to 47; and American Telephone & Telegraph, down 1/4 to 59 1/2.

On Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average, up 8.66 last week, pulled back 4.85 to 839.57. Declines outnumbered advances by a modest margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 21.57 million shares, against 17.91 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .31 to 53.02.

Panel meets again

Compromise sought on tax break bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Deadlocked over the potential impact of a business tax break on school districts, a House-Senate conference committee planned to meet again today in an effort to frame a compromise.

At one point in the conference meeting Monday night, Rep. George D. Tablack, D-Campbell, stormed out of the room in disgust over the conferees inability to settle their differences.

"I'm not going to sit here day in and day out and argue words," said Tablack, chairman of the joint panel. "We've argued two days about it."

Tablack wants the House version of the legislation, which would provide a tangible personal property tax break of more than 50 percent to new or expanding industries on machinery and equipment.

Since property taxes are collected by local government units, state senators worried that the tax abatement could mean a loss of dollars to school districts.

As passed by the Senate, the tax break would have been offered as a credit on the corporate franchise tax, thus shifting the burden to the state treasury, rather than local governments. But this was rejected by House conferees.

"Schools have to have inflation and growth in their revenues just like any other business," John Hall of the Ohio Education Association told the committee. Schools get about 70 percent of local property tax revenue.

A conference committee amendment to the bill proposed to protect schools through a formula by which the state would reimburse any loss caused by lower business taxes.

That was deemed unacceptable by Sens. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-Columbus, and Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-Cleveland.

Rep. Robert Boggs, D-Jefferson, however, held out hope that the amendment could be refined to meet Senate objections.

Boggs would give business the property tax break, guarantee local government and schools would suffer no loss, and attempt to compensate the local for any "growth loss" from tax abated business expansion.

The House planned a procedural "skeleton" session today and Tablack said the full legislature could vote on a compromise conference report before the end of the week.

But that was viewed as unlikely, since majority Democratic leaders are already talking about working sessions the week of Dec. 4.

UN opens debate on flying saucers

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Prime Minister Eric Gairy of Grenada opened the first U.N. debate on UFOs, then led the diplomats to the movies Monday night to see "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

"This is the fulfillment of my very high expectation ... The world is looking on," the leader of the 12-by-21-mile island in the Caribbean told the General Assembly's special political committee made up of delegates from all 149 U.N. members.

Gairy told a reporter of his own close encounter "2 1/2 years ago, when I was driving home at 2 or 3 in the morning."

"It was a big object, a brilliant light, golden bright, moving at tremendous speed," he continued. "It was off at a distance. I couldn't tell how far. It lasted perhaps three minutes. I'm not the only one. Other people on Grenada have seen them."

His speech to the political committee was brief, and then he and his party went off to dinner and an evening with Hollywood's latest foray into the world of unidentified flying objects.

The film's distributors provided 300 free tickets for U.N. diplomats in advance of the debate. The tickets were distributed through the Grenada delegation. The Grenadians also handed out 300 free copies of a paperback book on UFOs.

The solidly built, bespectacled Gairy, who intersperses religious thoughts in his UFO speeches, began his campaign two years ago. In an address to the General Assembly then, he called for a U.N. investigation of psychic phenomena. Last year, in another assembly speech, he proposed that UFOs be studied also.

Gairy is not the only head of government to have reported a UFO sighting. President Carter says he saw one in Georgia in 1973. But Gairy is the only national leader who has made UFOs a key concern of his country's foreign policy.

Gairy has accused some nations — which he does not identify publicly — of stifling information they have collected about UFO sightings.

He has submitted a resolution to the assembly calling for creation of a U.N. agency to conduct UFO research and to coordinate the findings of individual nations. The United States, for one, opposes the idea, and Gairy says he is willing to settle for a temporary study committee.

The Grenadan also proposes that the United Nations declare 1978 the International Year of Unidentified Flying Objects and that the United Nations and Grenada jointly issue postage stamps commemorating great moments in UFO research.

Fighter pilot hopes court will return him to cockpit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 58-year-old jet fighter test pilot, grounded in 1971 because of his age, says he hopes a Supreme Court decision voiding that action will return him to the cockpit.

"If they want me, I'm ready to fly," said Phillip Houghton after learning that the six-year interruption in his career may soon be over.

The Supreme Court on Monday refused to review a lower court ruling that Houghton's grounding was illegal because of age discrimination laws.

Houghton's former employer, the McDonnell-Douglas Corp., now must pay him six years back salary, estimated by Houghton at $200,000. And if a federal district judge finds that Houghton still can perform his test pilot's job, the company must give it to him.

"I'm elated," Houghton said from his St. Louis home in a telephone interview. "I'm not really sure what the future holds. That depends on the company's attitude. This has been a bitter court battle, but if they want me to be a pilot, I'm ready."

He said that the company might offer him early retirement, adding that he would consider "a reasonable retirement."

Houghton would have to pass a comprehensive physical examination for clearance to fly McDonnell-Douglas planes again, but he said he maintained the medical certificate required by the Federal Aviation Administration for his commercial pilot's license.

A company spokesman, noting that some decisions still must be made in the lower courts, said McDonnell-Douglas would have no immediate response to the Supreme Court action.

In other matters Monday, the Supreme Court:

—Agreed to decide whether a state may prohibit another state from dumping garbage within its borders. The justices will hear arguments by two Pennsylvania cities that claim that a New Jersey law prohibiting out-of-state dumping of wastes violates constitutional guarantees of free interstate commerce and a 1976 federal law requiring regional cooperation in waste management.

—Let stand rulings by lower courts which allow the government to pursue its efforts to dismantle the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. AT&T had claimed in its unsuccessful appeal that it could not be sued for anti-trust violations because it is heavily regulated by federal and state agencies.

Opinion And Comment

Camel's head in the tent

There are a number of good things about the administration's proposals to beef up federal support for public broadcasting. President Carter's suggestion that a stipulated percentage of the money being spent on national programming is not one of them.

This aspect of the administration plan is being formally opposed by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters. We agree with the thrust of the resolution on this subject adopted by the group at its annual meeting in Washington. Its rationale was congenitally stated by Frederick Breitenfeld Jr., executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

Noting that in any case the world "national" would need to be carefully defined for this purpose, Breitenfeld said: "The President of the United States is suggesting a legal quota on programming. . . Setting the precedent is not right, even if the President is a friend. Yes, we want the money, but no, we don't want official qualifications on programming."

The disputed provision would give the government some control over programming content, and might be the opening wedge for much more control. The risk is too great. The idea of requiring that a certain amount be spent on national programming should be eliminated from this legislation.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . By John P. Roche

Terrorism for hate's sake

Essential to understanding the activities of the German Baader-Meinhof gang and the Japanese Red Army is the realization that by any common definition of the word these groups are not political. As Walter Laqueur has indicated in his fine study of "Terrorism" (Little, Brown) their ancestry can be traced to the nihilists of Dostoevsky's tour de force, "The Devils" (or "The Possessed.") Bored, spoiled offspring of the upper class, they have turned to violence as many of their peers tripped on drugs or oriental religions.

Their motive is hate, primarily for themselves. But if you hate yourself, how can you like anybody else? Violence thus becomes a spiritual cathartic, a purgative, a form of behavior that substitutes for an ideology. Of course, it comes wrapped up in slogans, but as far as the protagonists are concerned the PLO, for example, might as well be the Patagonian League of Outcasts — they want an excuse for their equivalent of an orgasm.

I am thus completely convinced five of the imprisoned Baader-Meinhof gang committed suicide in what the Germans consider a maximum security jail. (I have a vision of a German minimum security jail in which visitors bring M-60 machine guns in baby carriages!) Someone observed that a potential suicide is a person who has lost the hope of love. These convicted terrorists, facing long terms learned of the failure to rescue them, lost their dream of cathartic violence, and with perverse consistency took their last actions against themselves. To complete the crude, compelling metaphor, frustrated in their orgasmic assaults on society as a whole, they ended in a climax of self-abuse.

A similar history accompanies the Japanese Red Army. When not on the prowl, or in jail, its members have been busy killing each other in their hideouts. Which raises the interesting question: Why should Germany and Japan nurture these singular nihilists? Make no mistake about it: as Laqueur and others have emphasized, these are not terrorists on the model of the IRA. The latter have distinctly political purposes, though they may engage in a little private enterprise — say, robbing a bank — on the side.

An authentic revolutionary, for example, does not commit suicide. This point was brought home to the widow Allende en route from Chile to Mexico after the coup and her husband's death. Initially she announced the president had committed suicide, but wiser counsel persuaded her he had died a martyr's death. By the time she got off the plane at Mexico City, the Marxist canonization of San Salvador was off the drawing board: She announced he had been brutally murdered.

On a far more serious level, the South African claim that Steve Biko, leader of the black consciousness movement and a dedicated idealist, killed himself by banging his skull against the wall of his cell is inherently preposterous. Biko was prepared to face martyrdom, not funk out. But — as George Orwell observed — if you want to be a martyr these days, you have to pick your enemies pretty carefully.

To return to the Germans and Japanese, who are animated by no idealism in their terrorist activities, is it possible that the basic problem is the absence of defined civic virtue with a strong historical foundation? Both nations achieved national identity (in terms of the world community) no more than a century ago. Both engaged in a wild race for modernization with at first great success and then, as in Greek tragedy, hubris (World War II) and nemesis (total defeat).

In a different formulation, we Americans have our differences and our mythology. We have a sense of national identity and, even if our ancestors lost to the Mayflower by a number of boat-lengths, a sense of belonging to a historical community with shared values. For a while in the late 1960s and early '70s a number of chic prophets cheerfully predicted the demise of "repressive American values" and plugged for dislocation, "the greening of America," and the rejection of civic virtue.

Today they and their acolytes are wandering around someplace between Zen and basket-weaving, while solid, philistine old America plods into the future, still taking as given the value system, the definition of civic virtue, that has sustained us for several centuries. Including a flexibility which makes anti-Americanism a harmless growth industry. A really vitriolic attack on American values can make you a fortune! How can you hate a culture that cheers every time you "unmask" it?

The light side

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — An adventuresome squirrel may think twice before doing any more exploring after a soggy encounter during the weekend.

The squirrel apparently discovered an opening in a backyard sewer pipe and decided to see where it led.

The pipe led indoors to a commode. When the squirrel popped his head out, he almost lost it. A startled woman, who moments before was relaxing in a hot tub, slammed the lid on the animal and called the fire department.

A fireman rescued the squirrel and offered to set it loose in the yard. But the woman, fearing another such interruption, objected.

The squirrel was given a new home in an Abilene park.

Mail order sales open annual jump

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

'Tis the season when holiday catalogues appear to tempt consumers with visions of mail order merchandise which add up to a multibillion dollar industry.

Although December is not the biggest month for the mail order business — January sales are actually the largest — it does bring an increased number of offerings in mailboxes and as supplements to Sunday newspapers.

Consumers planning to shop by mail should take precautions, however, to avoid disappointments. Mail order firms consistently rank high on complaint lists. The federal Office of Consumer Affairs says that 8.1 percent of all complaints received from February through December 1976 concerned mail orders. Only automobiles drew more complaints.

Federal Trade Commission regulations implemented last year impose strict standards for delivery and it pays to be aware of them.

Under the rules, a manufacturer who promises, in an ad or brochure, that your package will be "rushed to you in a week" — or two weeks or any given period — must ship it within that time.

If the seller does not promise delivery by a certain date, you have the right to have it shipped to you within 30 days after your order is received.

If the merchandise is not shipped by the date specified or within the 30-day limit, you have the right to cancel your order. The seller must notify you of the delay and provide a free means — a postage-paid card, for example — for you to reply.

The regulations do not apply to services like mail order photo finishing, to magazine subscriptions, to mail order seeds and plants or to COD orders. If you have a problem, you can write to Director, Bureau of Consumer Protection, MO-P, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C., 20580.

The Direct Mail Marketing Association, which represents 65 to 70 percent of the industry, also tries to handle consumer complaints. The association's address is: 6 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y., 10017.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

These tall stories might be helpful

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the 14-year-old girl who was so large for her age that she didn't care if she ever saw her 15th birthday reminded me of myself.

When I was 14, I stood 5 feet 10 and weighed 205. And as if that wasn't bad enough, I had bright red hair!

I was the butt of many cruel jokes, and I cried myself to sleep more nights than I could count. I didn't have one date in high school.

The summer after graduation I decided that God gave me my body, and it was up to me to make the best of it. I went on a diet, trimmed myself down, and took dancing lessons to develop grace and poise.

Today I'm 32, stand 5 feet 10, weigh 135 and am married to a wonderful man who's 6 feet 4. We have three beautiful daughters who will probably be Amazons, but we plan to teach them early to make the most of what they have.

QUEEN-SIZED AND HAPPY
DEAR ABBY: Yours was one of the many letters I receive with essentially the same encouraging message. Read on for another inspiring beauty:

DEAR ABBY: May I add a few words to your advise to TOO TALL because I was there many years ago.

TOO TALL is the stuff the models, outstanding athletes and many executives are made of. Being tall means you will never be lost in a crowd. Being too tall is difficult at 14, but if you play it smart, you can be a standout the rest of your life.

The secret? Train yourself to sit and stand erect. Practice a graceful walk. Study dancing. Read a lot and fill your mind with interesting and useful information. Develop any talents you have in crafts, music, drama, writing. Participate in athletics. Find a way to help others. Teach a Sunday school class, work in a summer recreation program, volunteer as a candy stripper at a hospital, visit a nursing home regularly. Train your ears to listen, and your heart to understand.

Stop crawling to your plate for comfort. Hold your head high and quit trying to fold yourself up so you'll look smaller.

If you take my advise, you will soon find yourself surrounded by friends who appreciate your concern for others and admire your friendly outgoing attitude.

Then one day you'll realize that you're dancing with someone shorter than you, and you will both know that it doesn't really matter which one of you is taller.

TALL AND GROWING

DEAR ABBY: I know exactly how TOO TALL felt because I was also too tall in my girlhood. My problem was further complicated because I was also too thin. You may not believe this, but being too thin can be just as painful as being too fat!

At 15, I was 6 feet tall and weighed 125! I used to force myself to drink chocolate malteds until I was sick, hoping to gain a few pounds. My parents took me to one doctor after another trying to put some weight on me. They thought I had TB.

The worst part of being so tall and skinny was the cruel remarks I was subjected to.

Abby, please tell your readers that it's just as unkind to remind a person that he's tall and thin (or fat) as it is to remind a person that he's crippled or blind.

I wish I had a dollar for everyone who's ever asked me how the weather was "up there."

And you would not believe the number of people (strangers, too) who have asked, "Say, how tall are you?" What difference does it make if I'm 5 feet 11 1/2 or 6 feet 2?

I hope you print this. It just might make someone stop and think before he hurts the feelings of someone who's hurting enough as it is.

At Farm Bureau meet

Top Ohio farm couple to be announced today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Recognition of the Outstanding Farm Couple in Ohio was scheduled to launch today's session of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation's 59th annual meeting in Columbus.

Four regional finalists were selected earlier this month from 40 contestants. The finalists are Keith and Jane Dennis, Rushville; David and Pam Oberholzer, Homerville; Gary and Barbara McKee, Xenia, and Craig and Marilyn Shaw, Wapakoneta.

The finalists were to receive an engraved plaque and an expense-paid trip to this week's meeting. The winning couple will take an expense-paid trip to the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual meeting in Houston, Texas, in January. They also will be entered in the federation's young farmer and rancher competition.

The three-day meeting began Monday with awards to 20 counties for their Farm Bureau activities and a call to farmers to let Washington know what they like and don't like.

Wallace Hirschfeld, the farm bureau's Ohio president, told some 1,000 persons gathered for the meeting they need to be aware of their power to influence.

"The government needs our philosophy — our thinking," he said.

In an afternoon session, Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Washington, said he feels federal pesticide regulators have overstepped their bounds and identified health problems where none existed before.

Foley, chairman of the House agriculture committee, said government pesticide regulation should not be so "excessive that it restricts food production or consumer choices."

"We have gotten into an area where the ability to detect unsafe substances in food has become so good that they have overstepped the bounds of any problem," he said.

Some 357 delegates from 86 Ohio counties will determine the state organization's policy on a wide range of subjects during the meeting. Topics range from rural crime to legalizing marijuana, busing school pupils, energy, gun control and mail service.

The federation awarded its Distinguished Service to Agriculture award to Kenneth N. Probasco of Worthington, retired chief executive officer of Landmark Inc., and Wilbur E. Stuckey of Columbus, a retired safety specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service.

The 20 counties recognized for their Farm Bureau efforts were Ashland, Belmont, Butler, Champaign, Clark, Clinton, Darke, Delaware, Franklin, Geunsey, Henry, Highland, Lorain, Medina, Miami, Preble, Richland, Seneca, Wayne and Williams.

If the Shoe Fits...

By . . .
WES

How often to change shoes?

Yes, change shoes and hosiery at least once a day. You will find it is very refreshing and gives you a definite 'lift.' Shoes are designed for different purposes. Use the appropriate shoe for the purpose. If you stand for long periods on your job, wear comfortable shoes with low heels. The shoes worn by nurses are an example of a good functional shoe.

Take the greatest care in fitting your shoes. Do not depend on size or number alone, but have them fitted with the correct last or shape every time you buy new shoes. Improper shoes can deform the feet with bunions, corns and callouses and can contribute to more serious ailments.

Changing shoes for work, play or relaxation can give a lift to your spirits and contribute to your good health and morale.

Strike countdown continues

Renewed coal contract sessions being sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators are responding to a federal summons for renewed coal contract talks even though both sides appear to be on a countdown toward a strike.

Federal mediators arranged a meeting today with representatives of the United Mine Workers union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, industry's bargaining arm.

Union President Arnold Miller scheduled a meeting for later in the day to brief the UMW's bargaining council and executive board on the talks.

The negotiations, which began on Oct. 6, broke off for a second time last Friday with both sides swapping charges of bad-faith bargaining. Miller walked out, declaring that a strike by the union's 130,000 miners "appears to be inevitable."

The union's contract, covering miners at about 130 companies under BCOA's bargaining umbrella, expires at 12:01 a.m. Dec. 6.

Under union procedures ratification of a contract by the rank and file takes at least 10 days. With today's talks convening seven days before the deadline, a strike appears certain.

The call issued Sunday by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service for renewed talks was the first direct government intervention in the dispute that appears to be giving federal officials relatively little concern.

"It would be serious and unfortunate if we had a strike, but it wouldn't be an emergency," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall has said.

Industry analysts and government experts say it will be three months before any strike begins to exert a major impact on the nation's energy supplies. Coal's biggest customers, electric utilities and the steel industry, have enough coal stockpiled to last about three months and could conceivably stretch supplies even further, according to government estimates.

Officials say some hardships could occur more quickly in states heavily dependent on coal, including Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

But for UMW miners and their families, the impact would be immediate. In addition to lost wages of about $60 a day, workers and dependents face an abrupt suspension in health and death benefits.

In delivering news last week of likely benefit cutoffs, Miller also warned that pension payments for the 81,500 miners who retired before the end of 1975 will have to be reduced in January if there is no settlement by Dec. 6.

The prospect of an interruption in benefits has prompted at least one UMW leader to ask Miller to seek a 30-day contract extension from industry while the talks continue. John Guzek, president of UMW District 6 in Ohio, called for such a move "so that my members will continue to receive health and retirement benefits."

Miller had said earlier that a contract extension was possible if sufficient progress had been made toward a contract. But such an extension now is believed unlikely.

When talks broke off last Friday, Miller said there had been "absolutely no progress" on key issues.

Traffic Court

Six persons were found guilty of driving while intoxicated in Washington C.H. Municipal Court during separate hearings Monday.

All six received three-day sentences in jail, however, three of the sentences were conditionally suspended.

Charles E. Thomas, 45, of 1310 N. North St., Gary E. Whittington, 22, of 3569 Camp Grove Road, and Robert F. Weller, 31, of Greenfield, each received suspended jail terms on the condition they attend an alcoholic treatment program at the Laurel Oaks Treatment Center near Wilmington.

Acting Judge Daniel Drake fined Thomas $250 and court costs, while fining Whittington $200 and costs and Weller $150, plus costs. Each had their driver's licenses suspended for 30 days, but were given permission to drive upon proof of purchase of financial responsibility insurance.

Thomas was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers early Sunday morning as was Whittington. Weller was arrested Nov. 19 by Ohio Highway Patrol officers.

Arrested Nov. 23 by state troopers, David Brown, 39, of 1038 Willard St., was sentenced to three days in the Fayette County jail and fined $250 and costs when he was convicted of drunk driving. He was given 60 days to pay his fine and costs.

The judge ordered Brown's operator's license suspended for 30 days. At the time of his arrest, he was also charged with speeding. He was found guilty of that charge and fined an additional $50 and costs.

Tony R. Sword, 25, 1467 Ohio 41, was sentenced to three days in the county jail and fined $200, plus court costs. His driver's license was also suspended for a 30-day period. He was arrested on the charge Nov. 19 by highway patrol officers.

David A. McWilliams, 20, of New Holland, received a three-day jail term in the Washington C.H. city jail, but was given two days credit for the time he has served since his arrest by local police early Saturday.

He too was fined $200 and costs and received a 30-day suspension of his driver's license. Police officers had also cited McWilliams for speeding for which he was found guilty and fined another $35, plus court costs.

Richard A. Anders, 19, of Milledgeville, was convicted of leaving the scene of a traffic accident and sentenced to three days in the city jail. However, Judge Drake suspended the jail term providing Anders does not violate any traffic laws for one year. He was fined $100 and costs.

Anders was arrested on the charge last Thursday following the investigation by local police officers of a traffic accident on Dayton Avenue at Water Street. He was also charged with reckless operation and driving while under suspension.

Judge Drake found him guilty of both those charges fining him $100 and costs and suspending his driver's license for 30 days on the reckless operation charge. He was fined another $50 and costs for the other violation.

Convicted of driving without a valid driver's license, Michael L. Moring, 21, of 318 Broadway St., received a three-day suspended jail sentence on the condition he does not violate any laws for one year.

Moring was arrested by Fayette County sheriff's deputies on Oct. 17. He was fined $75 and court costs.

Schlichter returns to lead way

New coach, four starters and things looking up at MT

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Four returning starters and a brand new coach may spell big things for Miami Trace on the basketball court this winter. After somewhat disappointing season the past few years, the Panthers look to be ready to challenge for the SCOL crown this season.

First-year head coach Ron Hall brings with him to Trace a winning tradition in nine years of coaching. The Chillicothe High School and Ohio University graduate has compiled a sparkling 151-57 won-loss record in coaching.

In 1969 and 1970, his Zane Trace High School teams compiled back-to-back 27-1 records. The second time, his team made it to the Ohio Class A semi-finals when the state had only two divisions. That year, he was named Class A coach of the year in Ohio.

During his four years at Zane Trace, Hall recorded an 87-12 record. He was an assistant coach at a branch of the University of North Carolina for one year before coming back to coach at Adena.

Two years ago, Hall was named district coach of the year after leading the Warriors to a 20-3 season and last year led them to a 15-5 finish and a district finals berth.

Hall, who isn't used to having players over six feet tall, will return four of five starters in the Panther ranks. Leading them all will be Art Schlichter (6-3, 188) who led the SCOL in scoring last season.

Schlichter was also runner-up district player of the year last season while averaging nearly 25 points a game. He is a pick by some magazines for All-American in basketball and is reportedly highly touted by Ohio State cage coach Eldon Miller.

The Panthers hopes will hinge upon their successful football heroes who substitute shoulder pads for knee pads this winter. Another returning starter will be Bill Hanners (6-3, 185) at one of the forwards. Hanners improved tremendously last season and will help with both scoring and rebounding.

The two other returnees will be David Glass (6-1, 165) and ex-Madison Plains player Tom Richardson (6-3, 170). Glass saw spot duty to open last season and saw playing time in a regular role near the end. Richardson joined the team after Christmas last season and proved to be a valuable asset.

The fifth spot should still be up for grabs between a pair of talented reserves from last season. Sophomore Scott Grooms (6-2, 183) and junior John Persinger (6-2, 186), the two best players from last year's reserve squad should give the Panthers five talented starters.

Glen Cobb (6-4, 200) will be missed by the Panthers this season. Cobb, who was used only sparingly last season, has decided to go out for wrestling in favor of basketball.

Nevertheless, his absence could be remedied by Gerald Evans (6-3, 180). Evans saw only limited action for the Panthers last season but seems to be a crowd pleaser and possesses good rebounding prowess.

Also helping out will be other returnees from the varsity in Kevin Stockwell (6-2, 170), Tim Hendricks (6-2, 175) and Brent Knisley (6-0, 150). Another promising sophomore up from last year's reserve team is Todd Delay (6-1, 170).

Rounding out the varsity squad are David Creamer (5-10, 165) and Brad Knisley (5-10, 155).

Hall said his style of play is disciplined on offense and very patient. "The whole offense is geared off the defense," he said, adding that he often uses a man-to-man press getting seven or eight players in the game to keep his team fresh.

Hall and the Panthers will try out the new system for the first time tonight as they meet Greenfield McClain in the MTHS gym. Last season, the Tigers — who ended up with a 5-14 record — defeated the new Panther coach and his Warriors of last season in the season opener.

Walks out on press conference

Woody less than friendly after visit here

CINCINNATI (AP) — Woody Hayes said Monday he has made peace with an ABC-TV cameraman he hit, but the Buckeye football coach abruptly ended a news conference and refused further discussion on the matter.

"Free press," said Hayes, "means I can quit talking when I want to."

Hayes said the cameraman, Mike Freedman, "as a matter of fact, said it's over. He said to drop it."

Freedman warded off a blow by Hayes during the Ohio State-Michigan game as he tried to focus on the coach after quarterback Rod Gerald fumbled on the eight yard line, ending the Buckeyes' last scoring threat.

"He says its all over, and I'm not talking about it," said Hayes, here Monday night for an annual Cincinnati Ohio State Alumni dinner.

Hayes said he was looking forward to the Sugar Bowl against Alabama.

"I've never played the Bear," said Hayes, referring to Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant. "It's a challenge. He's a great coach. He's been around a long time."

"I remember him in the 1935 Rose Bowl. They beat Stanford that year."

Hayes said playing in bowl games "has become a habit at Ohio State. We've been in one seven out of the last eight years."

"I'm really looking forward to it. I feel like we have one good game left," Hayes said.

Hayes said fans can expect no changes in his attitudes or performance as a coach.

"Nobody ever better say I'm mellowing," he smiled. "When they start calling me good ol' Woody, watch out!"

On recruiting, Hayes said "the Big Ten is as clean as any athletic organization." He quoted Indiana Coach Lee Corso as saying that when a Big Ten school learns another "is doing something wrong, we call them up and tell them to cut it out. But if there is a pattern of violations, we turn them in" to the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Hayes bristled when reporters asked questions about the hitting incident.

"I know they teach you in journalism school to search for the thing that's wrong and write it up," he said. "That's the way you young writers were taught. You've brought down some big people in this country doing that and your readers are starting to hate you for it."

"Why don't you write about what I've done for football," Hayes demanded.

He noted that since coming to Ohio State, "we've taken in about $45 million. And, with all the restrictions on recruiting, we've still done very well. I'm proud of that," he said.

"You know freedom of the press has two sides," he said. "It also means I can quit talking when I want to," said Hayes, ending the session.

WMS loses two

Both the Washington C.H. eighth grade and seventh grade took it on the chin in their season opening basketball games last night. The eighth grade lost to Circleville, 36-22, while the seventh grade was dropped, 49-36.

Jon Thomas and Jeff Campbell were the leading scorers for the eighth grade with six points while Robbie Smith of the seventh grade poured in 24 of the 36 points scored by the Lions.

SCOL season kicks off tonight

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Four games kick off the 1977-78 South Central Ohio League basketball season tonight as football is now little more than a pleasant memory. Four teams — Teays Valley, Washington C.H., Wilmington and Madison Plains — already have a game under their belts this season.

While only the Vikings and Lions have wins, the SCOL preview last week at Greenfield was exactly that — a preview of things to come. A predicted three-team race between Wilmington, Miami Trace and Washington should come about. The Panthers and Lions showed crisp offense against one another and Hillsboro went totally limp versus the Hurricane, losing 35-4.

Still, the preview meant nothing. The four game on tap tonight begin the long journey through the dead of winter until the state playoffs in St. John Arena next March.

On tap tonight is Teays Valley at Hillsboro, Wilmington at Madison Plains, Circleville at Washington C.H. and Greenfield McClain at Miami Trace.

Incidentally, the final line on the football predictions went 33-16-3 or an average of 66 percent. We'll try to do a bit better in basketball.

CIRCLEVILLE AT WASHINGTON C.H.

The Blue Lions are designated as one of the "Big Three" this season while Circleville has a shot at being a sleeper. Washington C.H. is already 1-0 with a 57-54 win over Gallipolis that they nearly let get away from them.

Senior center John Denen has proved in one game that he is ready to wind up his high school career in fine style. He scored 19 against the Devils and brought down a school record 22 rebounds in the season opener.

In addition, the Lions got excellent games from guard Tom Bath and forwards Steve Pritchett and Don Justice.

The Tigers really have just one full-time starter back this season in Toreen Bensonhaver, a 6-foot-1 forward. Sorely missed will be 6-5 center Brent Wright and playmaker Frank Merrill.

The Tigers will also be breaking in a new coach in Dennis Stewart while Gary Shaffer starts his ninth year at the Lion helm. Denen and Lions will be too much for the Tigers.

GREENFIELD AT MIAMI TRACE

Ron Hall makes his debut as coach of the Panthers and he meets a team that beat his former team in the season opener last year. That is not bound to happen this time around.

Greenfield lost its two big guns from last year's team in Eric Dunson and Chuck Cole. That team was just 5-14 and with just one returning starter and a bevy of reserves that won only three games, things are not looking good at McClain.

On the other hand, Miami Trace is another of the "Big Three." Led by Art Schlichter, the Panthers should display a quick, good-shooting offense coupled with a blanket defense that made Hall famous at Adena and Zane Trace.

The Panthers should begin their drive toward the top tonight and the Tigers should begin their drive the other way.

TEAYS VALLEY AT HILLSBORO

The Vikings are the only other team — with the exception of Washington C.H. — that has a win this season. They played Hamilton Township and bombed the Rangers, 82-69.

On the other hand, the Indians are beginning a rebuilding process under new head coach Bill Newland. Newland took programs at Unioto and East Clinton and turned them into winners and will try to do the same at Hillsboro. However, don't look for too much winning this season.

The Vikings are more than capable of putting points through the basket led by Rick Queen. The Indians still have a lot to learn about point scoring. Look for Teays Valley to go 2-0.

WILMINGTON AT MADISON PLAINS

The Hurricane, the most obvious member of the "Big Three," got the wind knocked out of them last Saturday by Xenia, 47-45. Evidently, the 'Cane misses a slick ball handler that they have had in recent years with graduated Steve Williams.

However, they are never at a lack for Williams as Gary returns for his senior year along with David Nared, a 6-3 senior sharpshooter. Also returning are guard Jay Harte, forward Bob Williams and a promising reserve, Scott Sizer.

Madison Plains will miss center Gary Self and forward Pete Sullivan from last year. However, they played Adena closely in the first game before losing 73-72. Guard Grant Barte is the Eagles' top scorer.

Last year, the Hurricane lost its first game and then won 14 in a row. This year, they lost the first game and history could repeat itself. At least, they'll begin with a win over Madison Plains.

Baby Buckeyes blast Marshall, 81-65

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eldon Miller ran his finger down a statistics sheet and stopped at the rebounds: Ohio State 55, Marshall 37.

"Next to the score, that's the most important factor in a game," said the Ohio State basketball coach Monday night, moments after the Buckeyes crunched Marshall 81-65.

Herb Williams, a 6-foot-11 freshman, had 22 of those rebounds to go with 21 points, leading the young Buckeyes to a 2-0 start this rebuilding season.

"He's a great talent. There can't be any better talent in the country," marveled Stu Aberdeen, Marshall's first-year coach.

But Aberdeen had a talented tall tree of his own, 6-10 senior Danny Hall, with a 22-point, eight-rebound performance. It wasn't enough. The Thundering Herd dipped to 1-1.

Williams said of his more experienced rival, "I didn't stop him early. The second half I jumped on him real tough. I thought I had a good second half."

Hall, almost single-handedly, kept Marshall in contention in the opening 20 minutes. His 16 points had the Thundering Herd within 37-31 at halftime.

But then Ohio State's depth took its toll in the opening moments of the second half, the Buckeyes rolling into a 58-41 lead with 10 minutes left.

MT-Greenfield game postponed

The scheduled basketball game between Miami Trace and Greenfield to be played at MTHS tonight has been cancelled according to Miami Trace athletic director Dick Hill. Greenfield McClain was not in session today due to poor weather conditions and their school policy states that no games can be played when school is not in session. The game has not been rescheduled as yet stated Hill.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In recent years, this town has filled up with expatriate New Yorkers who work in TV and constantly gripe you can't get good corn beef on rye anywhere in Beverly Hills.
But Frank Gorshin, the impressionist, actor, comic and singer, isn't one of them. In fact, after living here 22 years, he packed up his family last August and moved to Greenwich, Conn.
Greenwich isn't far from Fun City. It's mainly known as the place to which New York advertising executives take the 5:40 train each evening. If the train is running.
Why did Gorshin, 43, move out East? "I don't know," said he, here recently to tape an NBC "Just For Laughs" special, act in a "Wonder Woman" chapter and appear in a CBS salute — to air Dec. 1 — to Elizabeth Taylor.
"I guess I just got tired of the sun day after day. I wanted slush and rain and stuff." He commenced laughing about this odd desire.

"There's a lot of truth to it, because I'm on the road a lot and see different parts of the country at different times of the year. But when I come back here, the weather's always the same."
"It gets boring. I don't want to put the place down, but after 22 years here I miss all those seasons."
Another factor in his East Coast move: He likes to act. Living here close to the film industry may sound ideal, "but I wasn't getting to do as much of it (acting) as I'd like to," he said.
"And it's kind of frustrating. So I thought maybe if I get away from it, it might give me a healthier state of mind."
Gorshin, a Pittsburgh native who began his career at age 17, is well-known for his night club impressions of big stars. At least 50 are in his mimic's portfolio, from James Cagney to Lee Marvin.
Alas, the fame is a mixed blessing. He says producers and directors, unless they're fans and know he can act, sometimes are hesitant to offer him roles not involving impressions.
"They may be afraid that if they had me on a show, I'm going to do Kirk Douglas or Burt Lancaster," he mused.
Gorshin, who recently began a new role as a non-impressionistic spokesman on TV for RCA's new line of home video recorders, was asked about one of his most memorable acting parts in his lifetime.
That, of course, was as "The Riddler," the cackling loony of ABC's famed "Batman" series of the '60s. Has his enduring identification with the character hindered his career?
"No, I don't think so," he opined. "I've certainly done enough different things as an actor. And I actually think it's helped me because it's still in reruns around the country."
"I do a pretty clean (night club) show. I don't do any blue material. And families aren't afraid to bring their kids. So I'm always reaching new kids because of the reruns."
"And they all want to come and see the Riddler."

Summer jamboree reviewed

Kiwanis hears Eagle Scout

Eagle Scout John W. Rhoads was the featured speaker at Monday night's Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting in the Terrace Lounge. He presented a slide show of the 1977 National Boy Scout Jamboree.

The jamboree, which is held every four years, was held at Moraine State Park in Pennsylvania this past summer. More than 26,000 Boy Scouts representing 50 states and 26 countries attended the jamboree.

Rhoads, a senior at Washington Senior High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Rhoads, was attending his second national jamboree.

Because of the large number of scouts, the state park was turned into a self-contained city. It had its own hospital, fire department, water supply, sewage system, power plant, and telephone lines.

Rhoads said all the troops were divided into "sub-camps" and regions. In competition, a troop winner proceeded to sub-camp competition, then to regional competition and finally a national winner was selected in the various merit categories.

Rhoads said he was impressed with the Sunday religious services at the jamboree as every imaginable religion was represented.

In closing, Rhoads said it took as long to tear down the camp as it did to construct it.

During the business session of the Kiwanis Club meeting, Norman Armbrust, the interclub chairman, reported on a planned interclub trip to the Lane Avenue Holiday Inn in Columbus on Dec. 14. Kiwanis International President Maurice Gladman will be the guest speaker.

Students taking forced vacation

ROOTSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Rootstown's 1,725 public school pupils are on an enforced vacation today, but many of them are working to try to get the schools back in operation.

The schools in this Portage County community shut down after Monday's classes because the system didn't have enough money to finish out the calendar year.

The district's 7,000 residents are to vote Dec. 13 on a 7.9 mill additional levy to provide $248,000 for the schools.

If that levy passes, Superintendent Donald Crewse says the schools will reopen Dec. 14, since the system can borrow against the anticipated additional revenue.

Crewse said a great deal of concern has been shown in the community, and he is optimistic that the levy will pass.

"I would certainly like to think it will," he said.

While some pupils may welcome the extra vacation, many have been active in door-to-door and telephone promotions to boost the levy, he said.

If the levy loses, the schools will remain closed until Jan. 3, when 1978 revenues will be available.

To make up the lost days, the schools will have to hold Saturday classes and cut out the spring vacation, or extend the calendar into the summer, he said.

Crewse noted that an extended shutdown would bring some hardship for employees, and said unemployment payments would place an added financial burden on the system, although he could not say how great an effect that would have.

The United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearance, commonly known as Shakers, had four colonies in Ohio in the first half of the 19th Century. They were Union Village, near Lebanon; North Union, now the Shaker Heights district of Cleveland; Watervliet, near Dayton, and Whitewater, Hamilton County.—AP

Class smoking being allowed

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Some New Hampshire high school pupils are being allowed to smoke in class this week — to show them the harm smoking inflicts on their bodies.

The New Hampshire Lung Association, using federal funds, has been supplying high schools throughout New Hampshire this fall with equipment to monitor heart rate, skin temperature, carbon monoxide in the blood stream and nervousness. On Monday, the tests began at West High School in Manchester.

The pupils are monitored before and after smoking. Tests witnessed Monday showed the heart rate and carbon monoxide in the blood increased, while steadiness and skin temperature decreased.

"It makes you realize what smoking really does. It makes your arteries and veins smaller so the heart has to work harder," said Karen Klop, 15.

She said she smokes "one or two"

Gridder dies 15 days after game

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Wood County football player died Saturday — 15 days after leaving the final quarter of his final game for Elmwood High School.

Mike Duncan, 19, of Jerry City, took himself out of the game at McComb High School, complaining of a severe headache. He was transferred to Wood County Hospital, then to the Toledo Medical College Hospital, where he remained in critical condition until his death.

Elmwood coaches said a review of game films disclosed nothing which might have caused a fatal injury.

The light side

MAPLEWOOD, Minn. (AP) — It might be called the "Saab Squad."

The Maplewood Police Department, looking for ways to cut gasoline consumption and the department budget, is experimenting with two 4-cylinder Saab automobiles for use as marked squad cars.

"We have to get the most value for the tax dollar," says Police Chief R.W. Schaller.

Schaller says the Swedish-made autos get 25 miles a gallon compared with his full-sized cars which get 10 to 12 miles a gallon.

But while the Saabs may be doing well, the small car can be a little rough on a police officer's ego. One joke has it that when things get dull, Maplewood police officer Jeff Melander winds up the red ball on top of his Saab and watches the car spin.

Melander shrugs off the jokes and says he's satisfied with the car.

Where is photography headed? I wish I knew. When we read the popular photographic magazines, we're led to think that photography is just a bunch of gadgets, and without them you ain't got a chance of making a good picture. That's a lot of bunk. Photography is a great hobby, and many of the greatest pictures were made before these gadgets were ever thought of. These writers are motivated by the same old stimulus, namely money. They have a product to sell. These guys have done a good job, however, and many of the people who come in the shop have the idea that one more gadget will make them a photographer. Sorry, kids, that just isn't the way it works. The truth is that the picture is made a few inches behind the camera, in the "little gray cells" so essential to all creative work.

If you should wish to polish those gray cells, we have some really great books on the photographic process. Kodak has just brought out a new 14 volume set "Encyclopedia of Practical Photography". We've gone through the first volume and it's the best thing we've seen along this line. You may want to come in and take a look at it and some of the other books on photography.

cigarettes a day, but will quit "this week," because of the science class experiments.

James Hall, chairman of the high school's science department, said the program affects parents as well as students.

"I am quite pleased," he said. "We have had many parents and students quit smoking. Parents have called to say they have stopped smoking because the kids go home and torment them."

"For years," he added, "we lectured them and they were tired of that. Here they have visual evidence before and after they smoke. They understand it and can make decisions on their own."

Laurie Savio, 15, said she has cut her smoking from a pack to a half pack a day because of the experiments.

"It scared me because I figured that all of that poison is going into my body," she said.

And non-smokers who sat near classmates who smoked were affected.

Non-smoker Paul Pepin, 15, watched a meter show that his carbon monoxide level increased after he sat with a smoker. He said he never had planned to smoke and added, "I'm sure now, after the tests."

A Jeffersonville grocery store was robbed Monday night by an unidentified gunman.

A man, armed with a handgun, entered the Jeff Royal Blue Market, 23 E. High St., Jeffersonville, about 9:45 p.m. and took an undetermined amount of

No one was injured during the incident. A sheriff's department spokesman stated investigating deputies are currently checking out several suspects in the case.

City police cite driver after hit-and-run probe

A New Holland woman allegedly left the scene of a severe accident early Saturday on Cherry Street near S. Fayette Street.

Washington C.H. police officers cited 19-year-old Lee Ann Hart, New Holland, for leaving the scene and driving without a valid driver's license following an investigation into a single-car crash, which occurred about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

According to the police department report, Ms. Hart lost control of the car she was driving on the icy street. The vehicle slid left of center jumping the curb and sidewalk and crashed into a tree. No injuries were reported.

She and a passenger, Dean E. Mustard, 27, 113 1/2 W. Court St., who owns the car, reportedly left the scene in another vehicle. Police officers also cited Mustard for permitting an unlicensed driver to drive.

The couple appeared in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday and were found guilty on all charges. Ms. Hart was fined $150 and court costs for leaving the scene and another $75 and costs for driving without a license. Mustard was fined $175, plus costs, for his offense.

Two cars collided Monday along the 1100 block of Nelson Place causing minor damages to both vehicles, police reported.

Megan J. Price, 58, 1152 Nelson Place, backed out of her driveway into the path of an oncoming car, driven by Carol E. Halliday, 27, of 542 Damon Drive.

Mrs. Price stated to investigating officers her view of the street was obstructed by her neighbor's camper. The collision occurred around 4:33 p.m. Neither driver was injured.

Police officers reported another minor crash involving two cars Monday morning in the 300 block of Forest Street.

According to the accident report, 17-year-old Dennis L. Thompson, 1121 Lakeview Ave., escaped injury when he turned his car south onto Forest Street from E. Paint Street and slid into a parked car belonging to Debbie Hollar of 529 E. Paint St. Only Ms. Hollar's vehicle sustained slight damage.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a minor crash occurred on Jamison Road just north of U.S. 22 Monday.

Sheriff's deputies stated Virginia J. Barger, 64, of Lot 106, 94 Jamison Road, attempted to stop at her mailbox when her car slid on the ice covered road striking the mailbox post. Ms. Barger was not injured in the 11:15 a.m. crash.

Travelers advisories were in effect this morning for Ohio counties south of Columbus and were forecast to remain in effect through the morning rush period.

A mixture of snow, freezing rain and sleet pushed up from the south into the southern and central counties overnight. Parts of the state south of Columbus received one to three inches of new snow.

Snow mixed with rain or sleet were forecast to spread northward today, but temperatures were expected to be high enough to limit slippery conditions. Rain will be general across Ohio tonight and Wednesday.

Low pressure is expected to develop near the southern Mississippi River and move north. It will be over the northern Gulf states Wednesday, but will cause the rain to continue over the state. It also will bring milder temperatures.

Overnight temperatures ranged from the teens to the low 20s in northern Ohio to the low 30s in extreme southern Ohio. Readings were to improve to the mid and upper 30s across northern Ohio this afternoon and get into the mid 40s to the low 50s in the southern parts of the state.

Thursday through Saturday: Mild with a chance of showers each day. Highs in the upper 40 to mid 50s. Lows early Thursday in the upper 30s to lower 40s. Lows lowering to the upper 20s to mid 30s early Friday and Saturday.

Springer next

mayor of Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) -- Gerald Springer, 33, was expected to be named Cincinnati's new mayor after Mayor James Luken removed his name from nomination Monday night.

The announcement was made following a Democratic caucus. Democrats control four of the nine seats on the next City Council.

The nine-member council selects one of its members for the largely ceremonial post. City Manager William Donaldson is the chief executive of the city.

The Democrats, in coalition with the independent Charter Party, have controlled the council for four straight elections. Republicans hold two seats.

Springer was in line to become mayor in 1974 but resigned his post on council following a sex scandal in Northern Kentucky.

Snow blankets much of nation

By The Associated Press

Snow covered a large area of the central United States this morning, from the central Rockies through portions of the Mississippi Valley and into the lower Ohio Valley.

Occasional freezing rain was spotted from the middle Mississippi Valley into portions of the lower Ohio Valley, and travelers' advisories were issued for snow and freezing rain -- with some sleet in places -- over parts of an area extending from the eastern central Plains into the lower Ohio Valley, and also for parts of northern Virginia.

No large additional accumulation of snow was expected in those areas, but where snow combined with sleet and freezing rain, driving conditions were expected to be hazardous.

Isolated snow flurries were also reported in the Pacific Northwest, and some very light snow was reported in New England.

Southern California had other problems -- the hot, dry Santa Ana winds, howling out of the desert since last weekend at about 39 miles an hour and sending temperatures up to the 90s as they cut down power lines over a wide area of Southern California and capsized sailboats.

Small-craft warnings remained in effect for Tuesday, and the forecast was for more winds and temperatures in the 90s.
